HIGH DRAMA

*Feathers, frills and superhero capes:
fashion's main-character energy*

SOHO HOTEL, LONDON

Set in a discreet mews off Dean Street, the Soho Hotel is a fun place to check in to during Fashion Week.

Every room here is unique – a signature move by the interior designer Kit Kemp – but comfort and style are guaranteed throughout. After a whirlwind of shows, head to the Refuel restaurant for a punchy Old Fashioned, before feasting on replenishing dishes of mushroom pappardelle and Cornish halibut. BROOKE THEIS

Soho Hotel (firmdalehotels.com), from £550 a room a night.

EXPERIMENTAL MARAIS, PARIS

A stay in one of this bijou Marais hotel's 43 rooms and suites feels akin to living in an exclusive private residence. In the evenings, dine on Manhattan fare with French flair (such as beef fillet tartare or lobster rolls in brioche) beneath a soaring vaulted ceiling at the Temple & Chapon restaurant. Afterwards, proceed to the American bar, where night owls sit sipping smoky negronis crafted with the alchemy that originally gave the Experimental Group its renown.

LAURA NICHOLSON

Experimental Marais (experimentalmarais.com), from about £410 a room a night.

SHOW STOPPERS

Find repose from fashion season's frenetic pace and recharge at a stylish urban sanctuary in the centre of the action

PORTRAIT MILANO, MILAN

Located in the Quadrilatero della Moda (the fashion district), Portrait Milano is the luxurious incarnation of a former archbishop's seminary, now owned by the Ferragamo family. At its centre is an impressive piazza, and off the hotel's 17th-century colonnades are 73 opulent suites decorated in rich reds and golds, with wood panelling, rattan accents and Carrara-marble finishes. The restaurants are superb: try the 'white pasta' at Bar Giardino, creamy with a Parmesan sauce cooked for 24 hours. HELENA LEE

Portrait Milano (lungarnocollection.com), from about £830 a room a night.

ESCAPE

THE MILESTONE HOTEL, LONDON

Spread across two Grade II-listed Victorian townhouses minutes from the Royal Albert Hall – and close to Kensington Palace – the Milestone Hotel is unexpectedly intimate. With two members of staff to each guest, service is personal, and special touches are abundant: champagne on arrival; traditional sweet-shop treats in your room; indulgent Penhaligon's Blenheim Bouquet toiletries in the bathrooms. Come morning, a delicious plate of eggs royale will set you up for a busy day ahead. BT

The Milestone Hotel (milestonehotel.com), from £545 a room a night.

THE BEAUMONT MAYFAIR, LONDON

Though close to Selfridges and the thrum of Oxford Street, this stylish hotel sits in a quiet enclave a stone's throw from the parade of British designer stores on Mount Street. It is only a decade old, but has a Jazz Age feel that runs through the lobby and restaurants, as well as its 72 rooms and suites, which feature dark lacquered furniture, marble bathrooms and mosaic floors. A joyful exercise in hospitality. ML

The Beaumont Mayfair (thebeaumont.com), from £600 a room a night.

PENINSULA LONDON

Since 2023, the Peninsula has been a welcome addition to the London skyline, next to Hyde Park and opposite it's home to 190 rooms, including 59 serene suites, all beautifully styled by the architect and designer Peter Marino. The hotel has been growing its fashion credentials, this year hosting the Edeline Lee S/S 26 show in its ballroom and partnering with the British Fashion Awards. ML
