Cinematic Florence: Hotel Lungarno and
the Ponte Vecchio.

ACTION-PACKED ITALY

Fans of The Da Vinci Code author Dan Brown's best-selling thrillers (and corresponding movies starring Tom Hanks) can now channel fictional symbologist Robert Langdon in Italy. In honor of the film Inferno, the Ferragamo family's Florence properties (including the 73-room Hotel Lungarno and the 37-room Portrait Firenze) supplement two-night themed stays with guided city tours to the Florentine Abbey, the Ponte Vecchio, and some of the movie's other significant sites. Two-night Inferno experience from $512, including breakfast daily.

Off-the-Wall Style

Since 1942, Martinique Wallpaper's signature banana-leaf print has decorated the interiors of the 208-room Beverly Hills Hotel.

Now, thanks to the hotel's boutique, the botanical wallpaper is wearable (and totable), with cell phone cases, backpacks, and Sant and Abel-designed eye masks and pajama sets inspired by the design. Pajama set, $244, and eye mask, $45; shop.dorchestercollection.com.

FLIGHT OF THE DRAGONFLY

For a toucan's-eye view of Ecuador, hop on the new Dragonfly at the 22-room Mashpi Lodge. The cable car transports guests 1.2 miles through the canopy of a 3,200-acre Andean cloud forest. Each basket-like gondola can carry four guests plus one of the lodge's guides, who points out the flora and fauna of the Mashpi Rainforest Biodiversity Reserve below. Be on the lookout for howler monkeys, ocelots, and more than 400 varieties of birds. Doubles from $1,178, including all meals and a $100 spa credit. Dragonfly ride, $40.
