A portrait of Milan

Milan's rich cultural canvas will be given a splash of style and glamour next year with the opening of the new Portrait Milano, a 73-room luxury hotel in the heart of the city. Located on fashionable Corso Venezia and set in the world's second oldest seminary dating to 1564, the hotel will be a stiletto heel's toss from the city's best boutiques, restaurants, cafes and bars. The sixth bolthole in the Florence-based Lungarno Collection - owned by Italy's Ferragamo family - Portrait Milano will join Portrait Roma and Portrait Firenze in a trio of Portrait brand hotels. The historic former seminary features an imposing baroque entrance and opens to a piazza framed by a double colonnaded loggia. Following an extensive restoration project, the vast architectural treasure will house the new hotel as well as restaurants, boutiques and event spaces, making it a major lifestyle hub in the heart of Milan's fashion district. lungarnocollection.com
