New boutique hotel Pavillon Faubourg Saint-Germain in Paris has launched the Explore and Exhale package that combines an insightful walking tour in the Parisian neighbour of Saint-Germain-des-Prés with a rejuvenating wellness experience at its subterranean spa. A local guide will lead guests with expert knowledge of Paris' oldest quarter through the neighbourhood's 17th-century arcades and narrow streets. It will transport guests back in time through vivid descriptions of the local history, such as Église de Saint-Germain-des-Prés, the oldest church in Paris, built in the 6th century.

The local guide will move through the eras, sharing stories of the area's iconic cafés, which played host to artistic and literary greats of the 20th century, including Simone De Beauvoir and Pablo Picasso. Participants will be able to sample some of the city's finest eateries, including freshly baked bread and pastries, cheese and charcuterie. When the tour is over, guests will return to the hotel and descend the stone staircase classified as a historical monument to enter Spa des Prés.

The vaulted cellar housing the spa once held a legendary cabaret where poet and composer Léo Ferré began his career. It now features state-of-the-art facilities such as an indoor pool with massage jets, a hammam, a meditation room and a fitness studio. The spa's partnership with premiere wellness brand CODAGE Paris offers a menu of personalised and effective treatments to relax, stimulate and detoxify the body - an ideal solution to ease aching muscles after a day spent wandering the fascinating streets.

Pavillon Faubourg Saint-Germain features 45 individually appointed bedrooms across three traditional buildings. It is home to Les Parisiens, the contemporary French restaurant by chef Thibault Sombardier, where dishes expertly combine haute cuisine with a less inhibited style of cooking. Adjacent, James Joyce Bar serves delicious cocktails inspired by the local area, such as Suspended Garden, a nod to the Pont des Arts, conceived initially as a hanging garden bridge.

The Explore and Exhale package with two people sharing includes one night's accommodation, a two-hour guided walking tour of Saint-Germain-des-Prés, one-hour spa treatment per person and breakfast.

Lungarno Collection recently opened its most exciting new hotel, Portrait Milano, in the fashion capital of Milan, Italy. Housed in the former Archiepiscopal, Europe's oldest and the world's second oldest seminary, it was built in 1564 and commissioned by San Carlo Borromeo. Until now, it has never been open to the public, but a careful renovation project by Ferragamo-owned Lungarno Collection, commissioned to architect Michele De Lucchi and his studio AMDL Circle has changed that.

The great space in Corso Venezia 11 has become a new destination in the city combining Portrait Milano's values with food, fashion, design and wellness experiences for locals and visitors alike. Standing close to Francesco Maria Richini's splendid Baroque archway, the hotel has taken over the striking new Piazza del Quadrilatero framed by a double colonnaded loggia. It connects to Corso Venezia and Via S. Andrea for the first time and modifies pedestrian access through the fashion district.

Portrait Milano's interior decor and its 73 rooms and suites on the first floor were designed by architect Michele Bonan who also worked on Hotel Lungarno, Portrait Roma and Portrait Firenze. The rooms are inspired by the city's salotti (living rooms) of the 1950s and the blond Italian walnut and oriental references take guests back to the most charming houses in Milan. The boiserie on the walls features rattan panels and adds texture to the simple and essential lines of the interior design.

Guests will notice a predominance of red and green, the complementary colours often found in Milanese houses. It's deeply connected with the city, and its coat of arms, composed of a red cross on a white Samnite shield and a laurel and oak branch tied together with a tricolour ribbon. The intense red shade in the details is a tribute to San Carlo Borromeo. Guests will find restaurants, boutiques and a wellness centre on the ground floor in the Piazza del Quadrilatero.

Portrait Milano's specially selected partners include Beef-bar, an Italian restaurant brand that has consistently grown abroad, with destinations including London, Paris, Hong Kong and Sao Paulo. The restaurant and bar on the east side of the piazza will mark its first Italian location. Antonia, owned by Antonia Giacinti and Maurizio Purificato, sells international and emerging brands' products in the store. Their new home adds to their historic Brera location.

The first flagship store for Maria Sole Ferragamo's brand, Sole Studio, rescues abandoned materials in a circular process of creativity and design, transforming them into evocative jewellery. The Longevity Suite, which will manage Portrait Milano's wellness offering, is an enlightened brand. It promotes integrated, high-performance, high-tech protocols to guide people toward wellbeing through a perfect balance between health, conscious beauty and mental energy.

Young and talented chef Alberto Quadrio will guide Portrait Milano's fine and casual dining. Born in 1990 and originally from Piedmont, Alberto favours traditional, authentic and evocative flavours and the value of sharing he learned from his family.
