Rome's hotel scene is better than ever. Like the city itself, Rome's hotels are dynamic and diverse, ranging from historic grand dames to stylish accommodations with contemporary interiors. The best not only provide a place to sleep after a long day of sightseeing but also draw you into the community and make you feel at home. Some have a bar or restaurant popular among Romans, while others showcase the work of local artists or have a friendly staff happy to share insider tips with you. As part of our Hotels We Love series, we've selected 21 of our favorite hotels in the Eternal City—read on for our picks.

Portrait Roma's approach to hospitality centers on discretion. Tucked behind an unassuming facade on a side street off fashion thoroughfare Via dei Condotti, the 14-suite boutique hotel was designed to offer exclusivity, superb Italian craftsmanship, and personalized service. (Each suite comes with a "Lifestyle Manager," who is on hand 24/7.)

Part of the Lungarno Collection of luxury hotels from the Ferragamo family, Portrait Roma is imbued with artisanal craftsmanship. Suites are designed in a contemporary-meets-classic style. Rooms pay homage to Ferragamo's craftsmanship heritage with leather fittings and custom furniture and are filled with original artwork and Ferragamo-themed art tomes. The rooftop terrace faces the historic center and, weather permitting, offers breakfast and light meals as well as drinks throughout the day and evening.
