So beautiful and with a light-flooded skylight: the rooms of the Orient Express La Minerva in Rome.

Anyone who has ever been to Rome (and if you haven't, book quickly – hotel tips follow below) knows: This city is a single open-air museum – full of history, full of life, full of enjoyment. Between ancient ruins, lively piazzas, and charming cafés, you quickly feel like you're in a movie. And the best part? Rome's most beautiful corners can be discovered most relaxedly when you have a truly excellent hotel as your retreat.

1. Portrait of Roma

Without question, one of Rome's best addresses is the fantastic 5-star Hotel Portrait Roma, located in a stately townhouse. It's no coincidence that it's a member of the Leading Hotels of the World, a global association of the planet's finest luxury hotels. The location alone is a dream: on Via Condotti, in the city's haute couture district, right next to the Spanish Steps – one of the most famous staircases in the world.

There is hardly a more beautiful place to stay in Rome than in Portrait Roma: Here is a look into the Deluxe Studio.

It's bearable here, isn't it?

There are only 14 rooms and suites at the Portrait Roma, owned by the Ferragamo family, but they are all truly exceptional. Designed by renowned architect and interior designer Michele Bönan, they show: With an impressive combination of Italian luxury, inspired by the glamorous era of the 1950s, and timeless elegance, the hotel promises a superlative stay. The Portrait Roma is a stylish retreat, an intimate refuge in the otherwise bustling city of Rome. And the staff do everything they can to accommodate every individual request.

A spectacular view from the roof terrace of Portrait Roma.

A special highlight, in addition to the luxuriously appointed suites, is the rooftop terrace with unparalleled views over Rome's rooftops, where you can enjoy breakfast or an evening cocktail in a fantastic setting. An absolutely outstanding hotel and a fantastic base for wonderful days and nights in the Eternal City.
